Keymacro allows you to log text entries by using macros. It works in the same way as a keyboard shortcut. Fast, simple and intuitive to use The main window is divided in two sections: the text entry box and the labels of the text entries. The first one is represented by a line that you can edit by typing text. To get started, simply type the word you want to be logged into the field. The word will be written in bold in the middle of the screen. To use a keyboard shortcut to enter the same text, click the keyboard icon in the bottom left corner of the application. This icon is used to open the configuration window, allowing you to define keyboard shortcuts and assign them to macros. To use a macro, just type it into the field, select it from the dropdown list and press Enter. The program will log the text you entered, and place the selected text into the labels section. Note that, by default, Macros are stored in a hidden file named "Macros.txt". To access this file, open it with a text editor and click the settings icon to access the preferences window. It is worth noting that the text to be logged is not case sensitive, meaning that every capitalized or non-capitalized entry will be logged by the program. Powerful, customizable and full of features The application has a great variety of customization features, which you can access in the configuration window. You can add both abbreviations and variations of the text you want to be logged. In addition to the previously mentioned configurations, you can set the language used in the application, as well as the texts you want to display during log-ins and log-outs. World's first "Error Reporting" tool Keymacro is the first program of its kind, as it includes an advanced Error Reporting module that allows you to contact the application developers whenever a crash occurs. Not only does it notify you of such an event by means of an alert message, it also automatically sends an e-mail message to the application's developers so they can correct the error in the source code. This is a unique feature in a software package, and is definitely worth being aware of. A feature-rich and well-structured application The app offers quite a few features, including a revision history, quick access to settings, application-wide shortcuts and 2edc1e01e8

== This is the Client Area == Many people like staying up to date with the latest news and information. However, there are times when you don't want to read the entire news article, but would rather select only the headline and view the full article in your browser. The application at hand aims to help users in the situation described above, and offers a simple yet convenient user interface, providing users with multiple features to access the application. The main window of this application features a couple of buttons related to its functions and features, as well as a text field where you can type your search string. By clicking the Article List button, the application starts populating the list with recent articles that match the search string. You can scroll through the list or sort it by date to get access to the latest content. The Other Features button provides access to the configuration window where you can add new categories, filter the articles, or adjust the preferences, and the Exit button leads to the exit screen. You can also close the application by pressing the X button in the upper-right corner of the window. News Catcher Category Search : == This is the Privacy Policy Area == News Catcher is a free application and does not gather any personal information about the user. Furthermore, we use all the cookies that are listed in the application's Privacy Policy area. We never use any personal information provided by the user in any way. Privacy Policy Area News Catcher | Help - About News Catcher A: NewsCatcher is a free news aggregator with an instant search feature. The app's description doesn't mention the limitation of displaying headlines of individual news articles only, so I suspect that that's a client-side issue, and not a requirement of the application. Still, one could use an online browser-based instant search, e.g. Google, and search from there. Insight into the tautomeric equilibrium
